BOND ISSUE IS HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

HUNG JURY IN GARRETT SMITH TRIAL RESULTS

Jurors Six For Conviction, Six For Acquittal.

OUT FOR LONG TIME

Case Finished at Ten O'clock Last Night — Some of the Testimony Read Again Today.

The jury in the Garrett Smith case reported at 11:45 o'clock this morning that they could not agree on a verdict. Six of the jurors favored acquittal and six were for conviction, four of the latter being in favor of life imprisonment and the other two not specifying the duration of the sentence.

The case went to the jury at 10 o'clock last night at the conclusion of the arguments on both sides. The jurors deliberated over the case until 1 o'clock this morning but were unable to agree on a verdict.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning they came into the court room and reporting that they were still unable to agree requested that the court stenographer read the testimony of the first four witnesses who testified for the Commonwealth. This was done, the jurors listening patiently through the tedious testimony, on the examinations and cross examinations. At the conclusion of this they desired to hear again Garrett Smith's story of the killing and this was also read.

They retired to the jury room about 11:30 and returned fifteen minutes later reporting the hung jury. L. L. Farris, jury foreman, reported that there was no chance of the men getting together on a verdict, that they then held the same opinions that they did at the session last night. Judge J. G. Forrester asked each juror individually if there were any chance of his changing his views and all reported that there was not. The jury was then dismissed.

Arguments on the case began at about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Judge J. C. Rollins and Jim Golden argued for the defense and Capt. B. B. Golden and Floyd L. Byrd made arguments for the Commonwealth. Each of the lawyers ably demonstrated his forensic ability and carefully reviewed the case from his standpoint.

The defense called particular attention to the fact that not one of the Commonwealth witnesses were able to positively testify that Asher did not make a move toward his gun. They attempted to show that Asher was a dangerous man and the aggressor in the argument which culminated in his death.

The Commonwealth claimed that Smith was obsessed with the idea that Asher had "double-crossed" him and tried to show that this was the motive behind the killing. They discredited the testimony that Asher had threatened to put Smith off the force even if he "had to shoot him off" and declared that because Dan Hoskins was a judge, was no reason that any more credence should be given his story than the others who testified.

Men who served on the jury in the Garrett Smith case were: John Carmack, Ike Ginsburg, Matthew Evans, C. T. Clelland, William Breichtenbach, W. F. Cadle, Reuben J. Bailey, J. L. Faulkner, L. L. Farris, D. L. Huffstedler, H. C. Herdz and Robert Euster.

Squire Brooks Has Married 3,500 Couples

The folowing item from the Claiborne Progress regards a man who needs no description here:

"Esq. Robin Brooks, of Cumberland Gap, was a visitor in Tazewell on the 19th and gave the Progress a pleasant call. He has been Justice of the Peace in that border city for eight and a half years. In that time he has collected and paid into the County Clerk's office more than $1,200.00. He has performed the marriage ceremony for about 3,500 couples, and there is a record in the clerk's office to show for every license issued and every marriage ceremony performed."

Developments of Water Power Object of Government Surveys

Federal engineers working on Powells River reached a point about five miles from Hoop, Tenn., yesterday, according to E. H. Corlett, engineer in charge of one unit of surveyors. It is not likely that they will proceed much farther as they are expecting to remain on the survey there only until July 1.

The government has a three fold object in view in making the survey: That of power potentialities, navigation and flood possibilities. It is necessary first to determine what extent the riparian property would be flooded before the value of prospective water power developments could be ascertained.

"It is simply a question of which has the more value, the power or the area of land which would be flooded," Mr. Corlett explained. "As the banks of the river are steep, a comparatively small area would be flooded." He stated that lands along the tributaries would of course be covered with water in case a dam were built and that this would probably amount to more than the flood along the river banks.

The chief engineer gave it as his personal opinion that the development of water power is the real object of the surveys, rather than navigation in the case of the Powell's River survey. Included in the program are a number of rivers in the south, including Clinch river in East Tennessee and Pigeon river in North Carolina. The crew now working on Powell's expects to go to Clinton after the present work is concluded.

Tentative statistics indicate that fifteen times as much water power are going to waste in the rivers of this and the adjoining sections as could be produced at the much touted Muscle Shoals site. Cheap water power in large quantities is needed and it is very likely that the present surveys will result in gigantic power developments.

The government is bearing the entire expense of the work for the interest of the country. Should any developments result from the work they will no doubt be financed by private capital by promoters who use the government data as a deciding factor for the location of hydro-electro plants.

The engineering crew on Powells consists of twenty two men who make their headquarters at Patterson's Cross roads.

EX-SERVICE MEN TO MEET TONIGHT

Plans for July 4 to Be Discussed — Good Music and Songs at Meeting.

The last general meeting of ex-service men before the big Fourth of July celebration will be held at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock tonight. All former service men are urged to be present.

The meeting will not be one of merely routine committee arrangements but rather a pep meeting into which the real army spirit will be injected. There will be army songs, army talk, and a general rally of all brothers who have ever rallied to the call of the colors. Splendid and appropriate music will be furnished by an orchestra.

After this meeting, various committees will work out arrangements for the ex-service men's features of the biggest Fourth of July celebration ever staged here. Among the features which are planned for the holiday are: Army kitchen and mess, infirmary, proffessional boxing, baseball, and nearly all phases of real army life.

Boosters, at Goin, Tenn. Beat Coxton Team

The Middlesboro Boosters are making strenuous preparations for a big victory when they meet the Coxton team on the home field Sunday afternoon. This will be the second game of the season in the inter-city league of this section, the first having been played with Benham last Sunday.

The Coxton boys form the crack baseball team of Harlan county and the Boosters realize that some real speed must be shown if they hope to outscore the visiting lads. The game will be called at 2:15 p. m.

By way of warming up for the big game, the Boosters will play the Climax team at the East End athletic park at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The West End boys have attached many local scalps to their belt this season and may prove a serious rival to the town team.

RAILROAD NEAR BARBOURVILLE SOLD

New Company Organized—Line, if It is Completed, Would Be Short Cut to Jellico.

BARBOURVILLE, June 20.—The Cumberland railroad, running from Artemus through several towns on up in the mountains, was sold yesterday morning at Barbourville by order of the court. A number of Barbourville capitalists bought it and have organized a company to operate the road. They have already arranged for new engines and other equipment and plan to fix it up considerably.

This road is a short cut through the mountains, and if finished, would be a direct route to Jellico A tunnel has already been built through the mountain but for some reason the road was never completed through it. An immense coal field which has never been opened up is accessible by means of this line.

The railroad has been operated for several years by a receiver. It was sold to satisfy judgment on bonds.

CONVENTION OF DEMOCRATS MAY LAST 11 DAYS

Tentative Program Follows Schedule of Previous Ones.

HULL IS CHAIRMAN

First Formal Assembly of 2,600 Delegates at Madison Square Garden at Noon on Tuesday.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The tentative program of the Democratic National Convention follows closely the schedule of procedure which has prevailed in previous national sessions of the party. Many leaders believe the convention will last ten or eleven days.

The first formal assembly of the 2,600 delegates and alternates at the main auditorium, Madison Square Garden, will be at noon of Tuesday, June 24.

Cordell Hull of Tennessee, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will call the convention to order, and a member of the New York City clergy will pronounce an invocation Mr. Hull's introduction of the temporary chairman, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, will be followed by the Senator's keynote speech.

Mayor John F. Hylan of New York will deliver an address formally welcoming the convention to this city, and adjournment will be taken, probably at about 3:30 p. m., until noon Wednesday.

The report of the Committee on Permanent Organization will start the second day of the convention, after which the committee on rules will report. Meanwhile, the committee on resolutions will commence its work and start drafting the platform. The report of the credentials committee will conclude the regular business of the Wednesday session.

With the permanent chairman presiding, the convention will open its third day at noon, Thursday with reports of the committees.

The platform probably will be presented to the convention on Friday. The nomination of candidates for the presidency, of whom a score already are in sight, will begin late Friday or early Saturday accompanied by the traditional band playing, singing and noisy demonstrations as each candidate's name is put forward.

Thus the convention will adhere to a prescribed formula for only the first five days. If nominations are not made immediately, there will be continuous day and night sessions, except on Sundays and continuous balloting until a nominee for president and a running-mate for the vice-presidency shall emerge from the fray victorious.

The 1920 convention at San Francisco lasted nine days. Some local party counsellor's predicte the impending conclave, confronted by so many candidates to choose from, will be kept busy for 11 days. Should their prognosticiations prove correct, the Democratic candidates would be named on the Fourth of July.

R. I. SENATORS LEAVE

Fear Trouble, Quit Providence— No Quorum Now

By Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 20.—As the result of flooding the senate chamber with poison gas yesterday and the subsequent collapse of five senators, republican senators announced today through the state central committee that they were leaving Rhode Island and would not sit in the senate chamber until means were taken to protect them. Further trouble was feared, the departing senators intimated. Without these members a quorum will be impossible. Republicans desire assurance that the senate floor and galleries be cleared of all persons except officials, it was reported.

DENOUNCE BRITISH LABOR CABINET

Called Reactionaries Who Aid the Bourgeoisie Against the Working Class.

By Associated Press.

SALFORD, England, June 20.—The Communist party of Britain does not like the present Labor cabinet, and at a recent meeting passed some strongly worded resolutions denouncing them as being antagonistic to the working classes.

One such resolution proposed by T. Bell, of Glasgow, referred to the "treachery shown by 'the Royal and Labor Government of His Majesty King George' to the working class by becoming the willing tool and accomplice of capitalist exploiters."

Mr. Bell said the Labor party leaders were reactionaries, and the vilest creatures in the working class movement. Once mounted to bourgeois office they kicked away the ladder which the working class had raised for them, and went into the camp of the bourgeoise. The disease of empiritis was running through the whole official Labor movement, he declared.

DEMOCRAT PLATFORM

Prohibition, Klan, Foreign Affairs Main Points.

Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 20—Prohibition, Ku Klux Klan and foreign affairs will probably be the main fighting points in the tentative democratic platform now being drafted for submission to the platform committee. The administration of government affairs disclosed by senate investigations occupied a dominant place. Agricultural aid, economy of government expenditure, tax reduction and foreign relations, particularly relating to the world court, are among the principal planks. The present draft omits to mention prohibition and the klan but contains a strong declaration for enforcement of statutes. Although a plan is being advocated urging that nomination speeches be made while the platform is being drafted, it is considered likely that the platform will be adopted before any balloting begins.

DESPERATE NEGRO HANGED AT DAWN

Two cases in which F. A. McDaniel was charged with passing cold checks were dismissed today, according to the circuit court clerk who stated that he is still held on a charge of embezzlement. It is understood that he made bond in the last named case.

The matter of bond had not been taken up in the Floyd Ball case this afternoon. No date had been set for the second hearing of Garrett Smith.

Trial of R Lee Givens for killing Isaac Minchew which was docketed for Thursday has been postponed until the November term, the definite date not having been announced.

All Seven Judges Concur In Opinion Given Today

Judges Throw Out Every Point Made By the Franklin Circuit Court — Vote on Next November.

Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, June 20.—The court of appeals today held the $75,000,000 bond issue to be constitutional.

In an opinion by Judge Ernest Swope Clarke, Falmouth, Ky., the appellate court reversed the recent ruling of Franklin Circuit Court Judge Ben G. Williams, who had held the state bond law unconstitutional.

The court held that the law was constitutional in that it contained one subject, the submission to the voters in the November election the question of issuing $75,000,000 in bonds.

Mrs. Emma Guy Cromwell, secretary of state, restrained under the lower court's ruling from certifying the question to county court clerks, simultaneously was authorized to certify the question, directed to be submitted to the county court clerk of each county not less than 40 days before the November election.

County court clerks will place the question on the ballots and the votes cast for and against the act will be counted, canvassed and certified to the State Board of Election Commissioners in the same manner as the votes cast for any officer elective by the voters of the whole state.

If it is found that a majority of the votes cast on the question are in favor of the act, then all the provisions of the act, will become operative on and including the first day of January, 1925.

Gov. Fields, commenting on the ruling, said he would continue speaking on every occasion for the bond issue.

Joe S. Boggs, state highway engineer, made no comment.

The appellate judges who have considered the quesion in daily consultations since oral arguments Decoration Day, are: Chief Justice Flem D. Sampson, Barbourville; Judges Clarke, writing the opinion, Warner Elmore Settle, Bowling Green; William Augustus Thomas, Mayfield; William Rogers Clay, Lexington; D. A. McCandless, Monfordville; and Joe T. O'Neal, Louisville. Judge Clarke was elected Judge of the Court of Appeals from the Sixth Appellate District at the November, 1915, election, re-elected November, 1918.

Judge Alex P. Humphrey, Louisville, one of the most prominent attorneys in the commonwealth, drafted the bond law.

Arthur D. Allen of the Kentucky Good Roads Association brought the appeal to the appellate court on May 16 in behalf of bond proponents. Hubert Meredith, Greenville, Muhlenberg county, brought the unfriendly petition in the lower court on March 15 past before the legislature which passed the act adjourned.

Printed briefs were filed with the court of appeals. These briefs contianed the exhaustive arguments of expert attorneys on both sides. The brief in support of the state bond law was submitted by Judge Humphrey, Alex G. Barret, and Chester Gourley, attorneys for Mr. Allen. Mr. Meredith's brief was prepared by L. L. Walker, Lancaster; Sen. Henry S. McElroy, Lebanon; S. C. Eaves, Greenville; I. G. Mason, Adairville; S. T. Trimble, Hopkinsville; S. Walton Forgey, Elkton; C. J. Waddill, Madisonville; and Mr. Meredith. The briefs contained 87 and 76 printed pages respectively.

Both sides had asked an early ruling on the act, reiterating that the act is of outstanding public interest in Kentucky.

The court of appeals today, in declaring the bond issue constitutional, threw out every point made by the Franklin Circuit Court Judge Williams who held that the title of the act contains more than one subject and violates section 51 of the state constitution. The judge had held that the bond issue and the [illegible] roads are two separate subjects, the judge's ruling had declared:

SPOILING THE SCENERY

The Pineville Sun which this week was edited by the boys and girls home from college, carried this interesting editorial written by Ray Wood:

"One of the first things noticed by the students returning to Pineville was the number of signs and advertisements disfiguring the Narrows. When a tourist approaches Pineville he will most certainly gain a bad impression of Pineville by the signs which disfigure the approach to our town and one of the most beautiful spots in the mountains. Of course, advertising is necessary to business, but there are better places to advertise than the roadsides, and if roadside advertising is desired there are other places which would be just as effective as this place, which is far too beautiful to be disfigured by signs. Let us hope that our citizens will not continue to destroy the beauty of our river and mountains by putting up sign boards and by painting on the rocks in our most beautiful spots."

OUR VANISHING VOCABULARY

Can not our teachers of English in the high schools and colleges do something to rescue our vanishing vocabulary? From the catalogues one concludes that the schools offer more courses in English than in any other subject. Why is is, therefore, that there is such widespread ignorance of our mother tongue and so general an aversion in the young to use of good sound words, instead of silly phrases and glib slang of the street and the movies—"I'll say," "You tell 'em," "You said a mouthfull."

You ask the young lady if she enjoyed the music or thought it was not fortunate that the weather was so fine out of season and she will say, "I'll say I do." This answer for the first score or so of times might not be monotonous, but when it is used habitually or invariably by all the young people in the group, one begins to ponder the cause and to examine the vocabulary to see if there is no other way to express the thought that is supposed to be lurking behind these stereotyped words. Is there still an art of conversation? Has imagination any longer a place in our lives? Do we need more than forty or fifty words? Or are we turning over to the stage and picture-makers all necessity for thinking, acting and phrasing?

The role of prophet is a precarious one, but we should anticipate great success for a school that challenged and corrected the speech of every pupil all the time. Why should a student be permitted to go blundering through his classes violating every rule of grammar or employing only such phrases as are known to the thoughtless and the witless?—Indianapolis News.

LOCAL PAPER SAVES SMALL TOWN BUSINESS

A common remark nowadays is that the big towns are swallowing the little ones, that the automobiles and good roads are taking all the business to the big towns, that soon there will be nothing left of the small towns but a depot, a grain elevator, a post office a garage, and one or two little stores.

Fred Anderson, founder of the Anderson Department store, in Cozad, Neb., has proved that this is not necessarily true. Cozad is a town of 1,200 population, located near two larger towns. Fred Anderson started in business there with a capital of $3,000, $2,600 of it borrowed. That was in 1906. He started in a little frame building. Last year he did a business of $300,000 and his store now contains 3,700 square feet of space.

The first ten years he did little or no advertising and just dragged along. Then he started advertising in the local paper. He has been at it every year and his business has grown steadily to its present proportions. He gives all the credit to advertising. Last year he spent 1½ per cent of his income for advertising. He says he could afford to spend twice that much.

He has a duplicating machine and does lots of direct-by-mail advertising and he improves any and every opportunity for keeping his store before the public. But space in the local paper is his chief reliance. He never uses less than a page and, sometimes, several pages in the same issue. He says he has bought the local paper many times but never got title to it. But he doesn't want title because it serves him so well as it is.

The Rosenbaum store in Harvard, Neb., another 1,300 town, is an example of what can be done by giving the public what it wants and doing enough advertising to make the facts known. Harvard is within easy driving distance of four or five larger towns, one of 60,000, one or two of 12,000 or more, and others much larger than it is, but this store draws trade for 50 miles or more.

These stores have proved that it is just as easy to follow the good roads in a Ford to a small town as a large one, provided the small town goes after the business. Mr. Anderson says that what they have done anyone can do by following the same methods. He says a merchant is justified in spending as high as 6 per cent of his income for advertising while he is starting. But no small town will ever get any place by bemoaning the fact that all the business is going to the big towns and then doing nothing to prevent it. And no country town editor will help the situation any by printing editorials and news items encouraging such a belief.—By Ole Buck.

THE OPEN FORUM

Pure Milk

Editor Daily News:—Do you interest yourself enough in the welfare of your city to care what people are eating and drinking? Would you watch your neighbor's cow drink water from a pool formed by rain in the pasture and then give your family milk from that same cow? Do you know that there are few cities in the country the size of Middlesboro where health authorities will allow anything but pasteurized milk to be sold?

We are now entering into the time of year when typhoid fever rages. Most of this fever can be traced back to raw milk, either in the milk itself or in the water the cows are allowed to drink.

Pasteurization does away with this danger. Middlesboro has only one pasteurizing and sterilizing plant, but this one is open to the public for inspection at any time. All of the milk here is bought from carefully inspected dairies, then pasteurized and sent on to the consumer never touched by hand.

This is of great value to the health of the community, particularly to the children, and the work being done in the matter is praiseworthy. We should show appreciation for this service and line up behind any movement for pure food.

BOND ISSUE HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

makes provision for (1) 'Application of public funds to the payment of principal and interest of $75,000,000 of bonds.' It makes provision (2) 'For application of public funds to the maintenance of roads.'

"While it is true that authorization of the sale of $75,000,000 of bonds of the Commonwealth was necessarily the primary move and the paramount motive for the bill, still the title itself expresses an act relating to two subjects as above indicated: and the body of the act comprehends, or relates to many other subjects with just as much certainty as it does to the roads, but as to which there is no reference in the title."

The appellate court held that the circuit court's ruling is inaccurate and misleading and held that a correct analysis of the title of the law is:

"An act to provide for the execution and sale of $75,000,000 of bonds of the commonwealth. (1) fixing (a) the time when they shall be sold, and (b) the use of the proceeds thereof, (2) providing for the application of public funds (a) to the payment of the principal and interest upon said bonds and (b) to the maintenance of roads, to the end that said bonds may be extinguished within 30 years and said roads maintained in the meanwhile, and (3) providing for the submission of this act to the voters at the general election to be held in November 4, 1924."

Judge Williams had analyzed the title as follows:

"By the title of the act provision is to be made (a) for the sale of $75,000,000 of bonds and the use of the proceeds thereof, providing for the application of public funds to the payment of the principal and interest upon said bonds and (6) to the maintenance of roads, to the end that said bonds may be extinguished in 30 years, and said roads maintained in the meanwhile.'"

The appellate court threw out all these three reasons, Judge Williams gave for holding the act unconstitutional:

(1). That the title embraces two subjects. (a) issue of bonds and (b) maintenance of roads:

(2). That the title is misleading (a) because, "the casual reader and even a reasonably careful reader would conclude from th title that the whole bond issue was to be applied to roads"; and (b) because the title mentions road maintenance.

(3). That "the title but half states the subject of the act because it does not state the purposes for which the proceeds of the bonds are to be used."

A brief summary of the provisions of the state bond law follows:

Issue of $75,000,000 of bonds authorized; interest not to exceed five per cent; registration of bonds.

Maturities of bonds spread over a period of 30 years beginning July 1, 1926.

Provision for levy and collection in each of the thirty years of the following taxes to provide for the payment of principal and interest of the bonds:

(a). License taxes on motor vehicles and chauffeurs not less than those imposed by Chapter 90 of the acts of 1920.

(96). An excise tax of three cents on each gallon of gasoline sold at retail.

The recent general assembly added 2,664 miles to the system, he said. The department of state roads and highways would receive $50,000,000 under the bond issue and the additional under the state bond law declared constitutional by the appellate court today.

He called us a "Public Utility"

WE thought it a queer name for a building material business. "Well, perhaps 'public service corporation' would be a better name," he said.

There is a good deal of truth in that, we hope. We do try to give you the sort of service you want. We try to stock the sort of material that will give you satisfaction when you use it. We want you to get your money's worth.

If we don't satisfy our customers, we'll go out of business just like the next fellow.

One of the ways in which we believe we can serve you is to sell Cornell-Wood-Board. It's a quality product, all-wood, triple-sized to resist moisture, mill-primed to take paint, oatmeal-finish for good looks. Its large, clean panels are fine for walls and ceilings; and for handy repairs. It's like perfect knotless lumber.

You'd be interested to read the booklet we have about its many uses. 'Phone us and we'll gladly send it.

The new Super Cornell-Wood-Board is over half again as thick as ordinary wall board. It does any wall board job better.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Water Toast

Water toast is made by dipping dry toast quickly into salted water, in the proportion of half a teaspoon of salt to one cup of boiling water, and spreading thickly with butter. It should be served immediately.

Use For Stale Bread

Soft stale bread from which the crusts have been removed may be used for puddings, scalloped dishes, pancakes and omelets.

Cover Your Cereals

Cereals should be bought in small quantities and kept tightly covered in glass jars.

Meat Adds Flavor

A small piece of bacon or lean ham cooked with vegetables adds to their flavor.

To Clear Soup

To clear soup use white of egg, slightly beaten, or lean beef, finely chopped.

White Layer Cake

4 eggs, whites; 1½ cups sugar; 2½ cups flour; ½ cup crisco or butter; 2-3 cup milk; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon vanilla or any flavor; ½ teaspoon salt if crisco is used.

Sift flour before measuring, measure and add salt and baking powder then sift five times. Beat egg whites very light, add Orient flour, egg white and milk, alternately to sugar and crisco, which has been well creamed. Have milk and eggs very cold. Use white cooked icing.

Cream Cookies

2 cups Orient flour, 2-3 cup rich cream; 1 cup sugar; 2 eggs; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon flavor; ½ teaspoon salt.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl, add sugar, eggs (unbeaten) flavor and cream (have cream cold) mix well, put on board and roll thin, cut and bake in hot oven.

Pie Crust

2 cups Orient flour; 2-3 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup crisco.

Mix the crisco into the flour very quickly with the finger tips. Add enough ice water to make stiff dough. Use as little flour in rolling as possible.

White Fruit Cake

1 cup butter or crisco; 2 cups sugar; 1 cup cocoanut; 1½ cups chopped almonds; ½ cup candied peel; 1 cup milk; 3 cups Orient flour; 6 egg whites; 1 teaspoon salt; 3 teaspoons baking powder; ½ cup candied cherries.

Cream sugar and crisco well, add all fruit and milk, egg whites (well beaten) and flour with salt and baking powder.

Chiffon

Black lace and white chiffon are both lovely, fragile fabrics and when they join their forces as they have in this gown and hat we get a truly satisfying result. Besides the lace edging, motifs of the lace are cut out and applied on the skirt and the scarf. It is impossible to over-estimate the popularity of the black and white combination this season. As the season advances we find that white trimmed with black is more popular than black trimmed with white; but you can't go wrong with the combination any way you use it.

Angel Food Cake

1 cup Orient flour, after sifting; 1½ cups sugar; 1¼ cups whites of eggs; ¼ teaspoon salt 1 level teaspoon cream of tartar; 1 teaspoon vanill extract.

Add salt to eggs and beat until foamy, add cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Sift sugar five times. Add all of the sugar and beat thoroughly. Then sift flour five times. Fold flour in little at a time and last add the vanilla. Put in an ungreased pan.

Have oven hot when cake is put in, then turn flame very low and bake from 45 minutes to 1 hour.

Fashionable

Buttons are most fashionable for trimming now, used in rows or even worked into embroidery.

Color Schemes

The large colorful motifs in cretonne are being successfully transplanted from their native fabric and appliqued on linen or silk frocks.

Has Many Uses

With a scarf it is quite possible to make a street costume of almost any frock.

Ostrich Feathers

Ostrich has returned with a vengeance this year, not for hats, but on gowns and wraps for afternoon and evening.

Alpaca Frocks

Plaid alpaca frocks have narrow white collars of pique or handkerchief linen and belts of bright colored patent leather.

Use Of Flounces

Flounces are used most interestingly on the latest French importations. They rarely go all the way around and are most irregular in their ways.

New Shade

A new shade of red that is very smart in connection with white or black or combinations of black and white is called lobster and is just the tint of the well cooked animal.

Bengalines

As a relief from crepes and satins this season we have the bengalines and silk alpacas which make the smartest possible coat dresses and tailored models.

Colored Fringes

Red and purple ostrich fringes are used on a striking dress of red georgette crepe.

Checked Taffeta

Red and white checked taffeta lines the cape and trims the skirt of a three-piece costume of white silk alpaca.

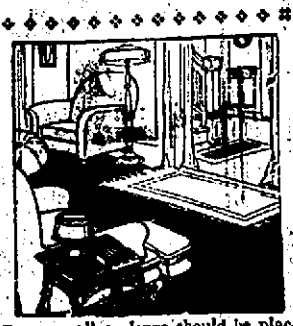
Nightly Program

Cook—What are we having tonight, m'm?

Mistress—Why I've just told you—clear soup, filet of sole, cutlets, custard pudding—

Cook—I meant on the radio, m'm.—Punch.

PLACE RUGS SQUARELY



Rugs, small or large should be placed square with the lines of the room. A small rug between two large ones lookes better parallel to them in the intervening space than thrown any away across.

How Satisfying!

Honeycup Ice Cream

You can't get away from this undisputable fact—there is no better food at any time of the year—and particularly during the hot months—than rich, palatable Honey Cup Ice Cream.

And ours surely "hits the spot"—for it contains all the ingredients that will pass every pure food law, together with a high percentage of butter fat.

You can buy it almost everywhere—in brick or in bulk, but please ask for it by name.

IN A BOARDING HOUSE
By Marie V. Caruthers

Over the faded paper on the wall
Gigantic cabbage roses climb and crawl
In patterns weird and startling of design—
How many eyes have loathed it—as do mine?

The room is full of shadows. Secrets stare
And whisper in the corners, everywhere,
Of former transients who once came and went
These listening walls are subtly eloquent!

The weary chairs all sag—so tired they
Of serving stranger folk from day to day.
The bed groans languidly—its ancient springs
Have had so much to bear, poor, patient things!

This shabby, wooden desk—so stained with ink,
What stories it might tell, I often think,
Of us discouraged ones, who yet must write
Gay letters to send home, night after night!

HARVARD, YALE ANNUAL REGATTA

Crews Meet Today on Thames Fifty-Sixth Time Since 1852.

By Associated Press.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 20.—Tradition that has come through more than a half century of rivalry will surround the annual regatta of Harvard and Yale crews today on the picturesque Thames river.

The universities have met 56 times since 1852 on the water and Yale, due to the supremacy it has asserted in the past few seasons, now has the edge in the series with 29 victories to 27 for the Crimson.

The first Harvard-Yale regatta was rowed in barges. Three years later, on the Connecticut River, Harvard's eight and four-oared barges defeated two Yale six-oared boats. In 1859 the events were rowed on Lake Quinsigamond. The regattas were suspended during the Civil War until 1864 when they were resumed on Quinsigamond, continuing there until 1870. Harvard and Yale then entered the Rowing Association of American Colleges and suspended the duel event until 1876 when the four-mile event was resumed at Springfield, Mass. Harvard and Yale each won a race on that course and the first regatta was held here in 1878, Harvard winning. With one exception the event has been held on the Thames ever since. In 1918 the crews met on the Housatonic river at Derby at two miles. The race was not held in 1917 because of the World War.

Burned By Cresote Painting Canal Bridge

M. C. Wilson was painfully burned by creosote while painting the new foot-bridge across the canal this week. Vapors from the stain which contained a high percentage of creosote and the contact of the liquid with his flesh severely burned his hands, arms and face. His burns received the attention of the city physician and he is now ready to resume the work.

EXTRA CREW HIRED FOR STREET WORK

Exeter Avenue Soon to Be Resurfaced — To Open More of Cumberland Avenue.

An extra crew of men will be brought to Middlesboro to grading and resurfacing work on Exeter avenue after the present construction of sections of Winchester and Chester avenues is completed. Indications are that this badly needed work will be done without delay when started.

The construction company superintendent says that at least part of the Cumberland avenue block from Eighteenth street to Fitzpatrick avenue will be ready for use by July 4 when several thousand visitors are expected here for the grand celebration. The south side of it on which the concrete was poured first will have set for twenty-one days, the required hardening period, by that time and may be used. A special preparation to expedite the hardening and setting process has been placed over the newly made concrete.

Moving Picture Tax Is Removed July 3rd

On July 3, the admission tax which has been paid by the public since war times, became a law in 1918 and required that a ten per cent tax be added to the price of all amusement tickets. The tax applied to decimals and fractions thereof, two cents being charged for a 25 cent ticket.

Occupational or privilege license taxes have also been repealed to become effective June 30. These taxes apply to theaters, museums, concert halls, circuses and other public exhibitions. They are taxes paid by the owner or manager of such amusements and do not effect the general public.

Local theater patrons will not be affected by the abolishment of the theater tax on admissions under fifty cents. C. O. Brown, manager of the two local theaters, says that the company here has always paid this tax for patrons.

Patrons, however, have paid the extra tax on admissions over fifty cents but these are not affected by the new tax law.
